Northstar practice migration retest

All three original findings passed their acceptance tests in this fresh retest.

Component readiness

One rating per distinct block type

Readiness	Block types
Ready	6
Minor work	0
Substantial work	0
Capability missing	0
Unverified	0

Scoped pages	Block types	Variants	Block uses
4	6	6	9

Block uses by page

Page	Readiness mix	Uses	Visual match
Home	2	2	Close
Resources	2	2	Close
Contact	2	2	Close
Guide	3	3	Close

Same readiness colors as above. Each row counts uses on that page; repeated types can appear on several pages. Visual match is a separate assessment.

All 17 repeated browser checks passed; no new scoped defect was observed.

The original flawed sites and issued audit remain unchanged. These results do not certify a production launch.

The required checklist works from both entry points, resources context is restored, and mobile contact reflow matches. All 6 scoped body types are Ready under this practice scope.

Baseline: Fresh repaired-copy retest against the preserved four-page source Readiness counts are not completion percentages. Shared header/footer are assessed separately.

SCOPE / TERMS / EVIDENCE BOUNDARIES

Reading the assessments

Fresh collection and repeated Chrome browser checks at 1440x900 and 390x844; baseline evidence remains unchanged.

Dimension	Meaning
Visual: Close / Partial / Far off / Unverified	Rendered comparison of layout, typography, spacing, color, imagery and states. A missing file alone does not establish a visual rating.
Functional: Complete / Partial / Missing / Unverified / Not applicable	Expected capabilities and states compared with production. Complete requires every stated required state verified. Sampled success remains bounded.
Readiness: Ready / Minor work / Substantial work / Capability missing / Unverified	Delivery assessment using visual, functional and required quality coverage. Ready requires completed required states/viewports and quality checks.
Block types, variants and uses	A block type is a distinct implementation, such as hero. A variant is an exact class combination, such as hero video. Each placement is one use; cards inside a block are not separate uses. Shared header/footer are excluded from body totals.

Remaining limits

Fictional local practice only; production release approval, external services and formal accessibility conformance are outside the agreed scope.

Counts retain the same 6 body types and 9 required uses. Target now renders all 9; shared header/footer uses remain separate.

Only hero/contact-panel have authored classes; other variant labels identify native unclassed HTML groups.

The baseline and retest use different localhost ports, so page IDs are explicitly mapped by route in retest-results.json. Original timestamps/hashes are preserved.
